

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

- STEPHEN LUCIUS GWYNN. A brilliant Irish man of letters, who has published many books and articles on Ireland and on general literary subjects. M. P. for Galway City, 1906-1918. Served in the Great War (Captain) with the Connaught Rangers. Legion of Honour. Has resided in Ireland since 1904.
- SIR ANDREW MACPHAIL. Professor of the History of Medicine, McGill University. Served in European War 1914-1919. O. B. E. Formerly editor of The University Magazine.
- THOMAS LEPAGE. Formerly on the staff of Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown. Died 1890. Mr. James A. Sedgewick, K. C., to whom his literary remains were entrusted, has kindly permitted The Dalhousie Review to make use of the verses published in this number.
- BASIL KING. A Prince Edward Islander, now resident in Cambridge, Mass. Engaged in authorship since 1900. Mr. King's novels have long achieved great celebrity, especially in the United States, and he takes deep interest in stimulating a native Canadian literature.
- LAWRENCE JOHNSTON BURPEE. Secretary, Canadian Section of the International Joint Commission. Secretary, Section II of the Royal Society of Canada. President, Canadian Historical Association. Has published many books and articles, including contributions to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.
- LOUIS HENRY JORDAN. An author of much distinction in the field of Comparative Religion. Special Lecturer on Comparative Religion, University of Chicago, 1902. Minister of St. Andrew's Church, Halifax, 1882-1885. Has published many volumes of research.
- JOHN WALKER MACMILLAN. Professor of Sociology in Victoria College, Toronto. Formerly Professor in Manitoba College. Formerly Minister of St. Matthew's Church, Halifax.
- JOHN EDWARD ANNAND MACLEOD. A lawyer, head of the firm of MacLeod, Robertson, Smith and Co., Calgary, Alberta.
- EFFIE MAY ROSS. An energetic Nova Scotian writer, who has published many articles on musical, historical, and artistic subjects.
- JOHN E. BLAKENY MCCREADY. A veteran journalist of Prince Edward Island. Successively editor of the Moncton Transcript, the St. John Telegraph, and the Charlottetown Guardian. President of the Press Gallery at Ottawa, 1882. Widely known throughout a long life as writer, speaker, and lecturer.
- OLUF TANDBERG. Minister of the Universalist Church, Halifax. Formerly in an American publishing firm, and a prolific writer in American publications. A Norwegian by birth, and a lifelong student of the Norse languages and literatures.
- MARY JOSEPHINE SHANNON. Assistant Librarian, Dalhousie University. Daughter of the late Hon. S. L. Shannon. An occasional contributor to magazines.